Statement of Compliance

The Responsible Individual must prepare the statement of compliance.

CIW have published guidance on completing the quality of care review which provides advice on what could be contained within the statement of compliance.

Set out your statement of compliance in respect to the four well-being areas below.

The extent to which people feel their voices are heard, they have choice about their care and support, and opportunities are made available to them.

With Dementia Individuals its hard to gather certain information from them but we collect relevant information and continue to g ather from families, visiting Friends and Social Services. For example, our care staff, Activities team, spend 1 to 1 with in dividuals and gather relevant information required. We offer fa milies the option to look through their relatives care plan and help us to update as we go along. We ask families to fill in a que stionnaires at the start to help us provide better quality care and have a person cantered care plan.

The extent to which people are happy and supported to maintain their ongoing health, development and overall wellbeing. For children, this will also include intellectual, social and behavioural development.

We try to create an environment where residents feel content, s upported, and happy to maintain their well-being. With person-c entred care, we look for individual needs and preferences. With social engagement, encouraging social interactions and providi ng opportunities for residents to connect with each other and p articipate in going out on trips during the week, and activities wi thin the home. With health and medical support, We have train ed staff who provide assistance with daily activities, medication management, and healthcare needs. Check-ups from GP's and D Nurses visiting every week when required. With emotional su pport, care staff monitoring individuals' emotional well-being an d mental health. And being aware of mindfulness, and mental st imulation. Nutritious meals: Providing balanced meals that cater to individual dietary needs and which is essential for maintainin g good health. Environment and safety: We ensure a safe and comfortable living environment for individuals including good hy giene standards, and appropriate safety measures to prevent a ccidents.

These factors collectively contribute to the happiness and wellbeing of individuals residing in a care home. However, it's important to note that specific practices and approaches may vary be tween different care homes and countries.

The extent to which people feel safe and protected from abuse and neglect.

Ensuring the safety and protection of our individuals from abus e and neglect is of paramount importance. Staff training and re cruitment is vitally important We implement CRB checks during t he staff recruitment process to ensure individuals with a history of abuse or neglect, and references are requested before staff are employed. Ongoing training; in-house or E-learning training is provided to staff members, focusing on preventing abuse, pr oper communication, and maintaining good practices. Other ke y areas the home focuses on are, correct staffing levels, super vision and appraisals, regular monitoring from management an d RI checks, and encouraging good communication practices a nd collaboration with external agencies: It is important to note th at while care homes strive to create a safe and protected envir onment, instances of abuse or neglect can still occur. Prompt a ction should be taken to address any reported incidents, provid e support to the affected individuals, and prevent future occurr ences through improved policies and training.

The extent to which people live in accommodation that best supports their wellbeing and achievement of their personal outcomes.

By providing accommodation that best supports the well-being of the individual within the care home is crucial. The key areas t hat contribute to creating an environment that supports individu als within the home are:

Personalizing their bedroom and choice: Individuals should hav e the opportunity to personalize their own bedroom space to ref lect their individual preferences and create a sense of familiarit y. This includes bringing personal belongings, decorating their room with personal furniture, pictures, etc. Accessibility and saf ety: The care home is designed to meet the needs of individual s, ensuring accessibility and safety. This may include features li ke handrails, non-slip flooring, wheelchair accessibility, and pro perly installed safety equipment to prevent accidents and prom ote independence. Comfort and privacy: Providing comfortable living spaces that offer privacy is essential for the individual's w ell-being. Supportive facilities: The care home offer facilities an d amenities that support individuals' physical, emotional, and so cial well-being. This includes communal areas for socializing, a I arge garden, activity rooms for mental stimulation, and access t o other services within or nearby the care home. It is important t hat care staff regularly assess and review individuals' needs an d preferences to ensure that the accommodation and support p rovided align with their personal outcomes and contribute to the ir overall well-being.
