Summary

Ty Coed bungalow is a well-run service supporting individuals with autism. The service is based in a group of homes run by the National Autistic Society (NAS). Ty Coed bungalow is a small property with well-maintained grounds. There are appropriate levels of staff who are suitable qualified. There are 2 vacancies within the service however these are managed by a core relief team. The recruitment process is under way, this was confirmed through discussion with the management team and staff.

Ty Coed bungalow has effective oversite by the responsible individual (RI) and a network of support from home managers within the Longford services. We saw good mechanisms in place to monitor and review the quality of support to people. We saw good procedures in place for the safe recruitment of staff and their ongoing development.

People and their relatives told us they are very happy with the support provided. The service meets the tailored outcomes of the people and provides information for staff to best understand their needs and wishes of people.

Well-being

People have a voice and are treated with dignity and respect. People are involved with their personal support plan and outcomes are based on their needs and wishes. Support plans are reviewed to meet people's current needs, using pictures and clear language suitable for individual's communication needs.

Peoples physical, mental health and emotional well-being is promoted. There are procedures in place to monitor people's mental health and well-being. Daily records, clearly written person-centred plans and risk assessments reflect this. We saw people carrying out activities which were supported by appropriate support plans and informed risk assessments.

We saw strong governance and oversight of the service. The responsible individual has good quality monitoring process is in place to safeguard vulnerable people. Quarterly monitoring visits give guidance and support to the manager to ensure ongoing improvements to the service. Staff are supported through supervision carried out within regulatory time scales.

People are protected from harm and neglect. People are supported by knowledgeable and skilled staff who received safeguarding training and understand their responsibilities. Staff told us; "Safeguarding is keeping people safe and who to tell if I saw anything." There are safeguarding policies and procedures in place regularly reviewed by the provider.

People live in accommodation that suits their needs and supports achievement of their outcomes. We saw admission processes and assessment documentation in place to reflect this. Staff were vocal in their support for following the admission processes ensuring the most appropriate placements, to safeguard the wellbeing of people.

People can do things that matter to them. We saw positive interactions during daily activities. People are listened to and given reassurance when needed. Activities are person centred, based around the interests and strength of the individual.

Care and Support

The provider considers a wide range of views and information in order to confirm their ability to meet the needs of the people they support. The provider has produced both a standard and easy read guide to services which supports the communication needs of people. The Statement of purpose (SoP) gives clear guidance of the suitability of service assessment which is reviewed regularly. Staff told us; "I would follow the suitability process and if I thought the new service user was not suitable, for the guys already living here I would say something."

The service provider has accurate and up to date personal plans in place to meet the needs of people. Personal plans are reviewed regularly and with the introduction of a new format showing pictorial progress of people's outcomes, the review process is made more accessible to those with complex needs. Relatives told us; "it's nice to have everyone on board, singing from the same hymn sheet."

People are supported well with support plans and risk assessments to reflect this. Behaviour management plans are well written with the support of the National Autistic Society behaviour management team. When asked about the service relatives told us; "I would say it's excellent." And "I say they're probably leaving the best life they could." We saw people being supported to engage in activities meaningful to them. Relatives told us "We have a good relationship with staff, and if a problem does occur it's about working it through together." And a professional told us; "Communication between provider, family and care co-ordinator is exemplary."

The provider has mechanisms in place to safeguard vulnerable people they support. We saw up to date, regularly reviewed, policies and procedures in place to safeguard people. Deprivation of Liberty Safeguards (DoLs) are in place for those individuals who do not have the capacity to make decisions around their care and support. We saw these are being reviewed on an annual basis with the relevant external professionals.

There are systems in place to support people with medication management and to support and maintain people's health. The provider has policies and procedures in place for the safe management of medication. We saw documents showing regular auditing of medication administration records (MAR) and the consistent review of medications.

Staff told us; "training, all up to date and if there is anything I want I can put myself forward for it." "The NAS have a lot of good training and it covers everything."

Environment

The property meets the needs of the people. The décor is tasteful and supports the likes and dislikes of the people. Relatives told us; "The place they've got is amazing the fact they've got a little garden with not quite palm trees but almost, it's very nice in the summer, another relative has been and can't believe the place."

People are involved in the decoration of the service. Staff told us that people are going to pick out paint colours and be involved as much as they want and are able.

We saw people comfortable in their surroundings. Ty Coed bungalow is a small service which is able to support the people living there. We saw people relaxing doing activities they enjoy and going about the home with confidence. People appear happy and have personalised their bedrooms with support from staff and family. The outdoor space is accessible, well maintained and used by the people regularly, especially during the summer months. Staff told us; "I would give this service 9 out of 10 house the grounds the facilities in the house it's all good."

The provider has systems in place to identify and mitigate risk to the health and safety of people. All safety checks are carried out, we saw servicing records for fire, water and vehicle checks. The service is secure with high fence and key code entry system in place. There is some refurbishment work need. The RI and manager have supplied an action plan for the refurbishment, some of which has already begun. The service shares a full-time maintenance person to support ongoing maintenance.

The management of infection control and hygiene practices within the service are good, we saw documentation and stocks of Personal protective equipment (PPE) to support this. The laundry room is well organised. We saw cleaning products are stored safely, appropriately, and according to control of substances harmful to health regulations (CoSHH). Along with clear instruction for staff around spills.

Leadership and Management

The provider has good governance and quality monitoring arrangements in place which supports the running of the service. The service has a manager in post covering 2 services. the manager has the skills and qualifications relevant to supporting people with autism. Staff told us; "I feel the management team are very approachable, since this manager came, they have been outstanding."

The provider has a core of well-trained staff with vacancies supported by an internal relief team. There are regularly reviewed policies and procedures in place. An easy read guide to services and statement of purpose which fully reflects the service being provided.

The service has good systems in place to monitor and review the quality of care and support being provided. The responsible individual has good oversight of the service which is reflected in the three-monthly reports and quality care reviews. Each report shows areas for improvement and clear guidelines to the manager and operational manager of their role and responsibilities in the quality process. The provider has oversight of financial arrangements and investments in the service we saw high staffing levels on the day of inspection this was confirmed by the daily schedule for staff.

The provider operates a culture of openness and candour at all levels, staff told us, "The management team here are brilliant, if you need anything they are there for you anytime." And "I know the RI I have met her loads of times a very lovely lady."

The service provides the appropriate number of staff who have the knowledge competency and skills to support individuals to achieve their personal outcomes. Staff told us; "I done most of my training online as I came during covid, but I did my PBM in person." "I think it was good training, I haven't struggled with anything I feel capable." And "NAS are very good with their training not just mandatory, and it gives you more knowledge and refreshes knowledge you already have." The training plan was viewed, staff are up to date with all mandatory training and some specialist training. It was also confirmed all staff are registered with Social Care Wales. We looked at 5 staff files and saw that recruitment documentation is in place. Supervision and appraisal records show staff are well supported and their will being considered. Staff told us; "I couldn't do without the manager and deputy, they support you, we get support daily as they're here all the time." We spoke to the manager who confirmed they have regular supervision and is well supported by the regional manager and Responsible Individual.
